Towards an Inclusive Research Framework for People Experiencing Homelessness

Emily Adams | ACRC Academy

Edinburgh Open Research Conference 2026

18th June 2026

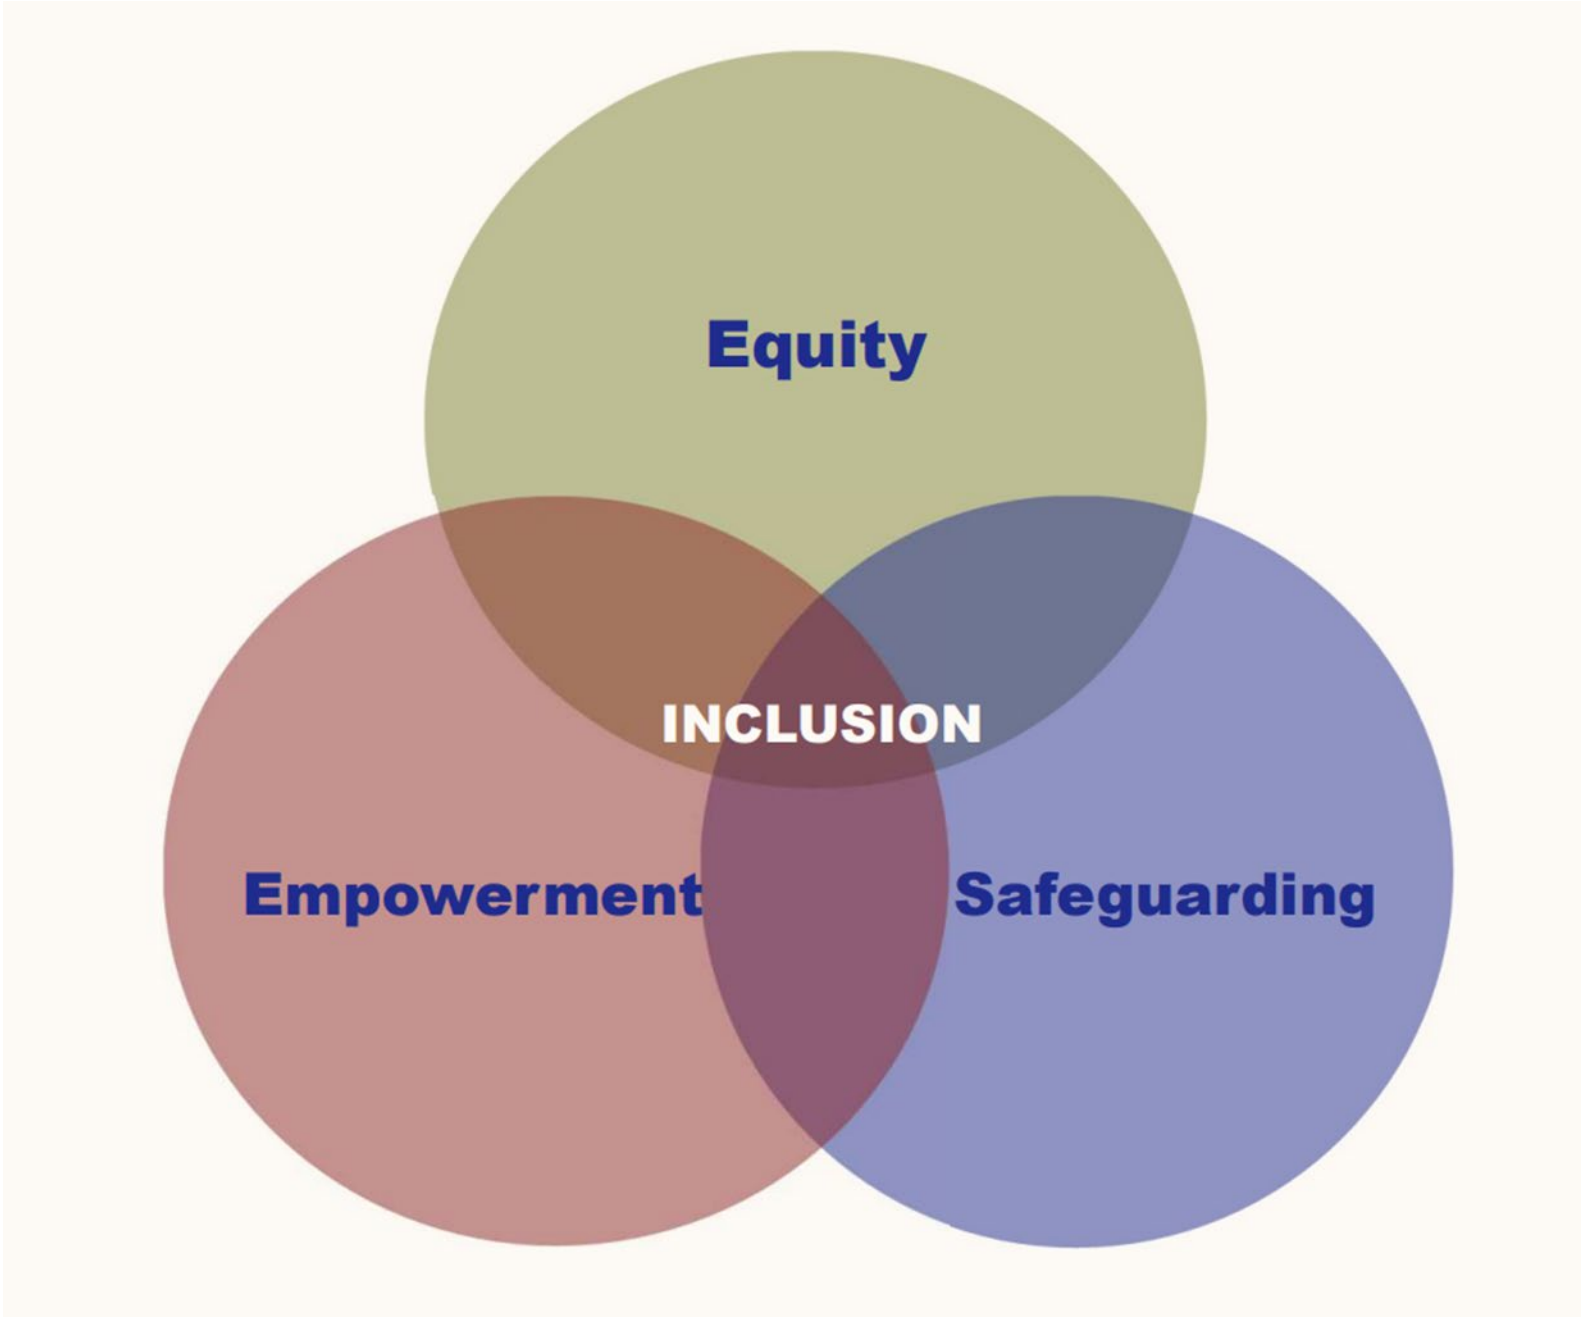
ACRC
Advanced Care Research Centre

THE UNIVERSITY of EDINBURGH
Centre for Homelessness and Inclusion Health

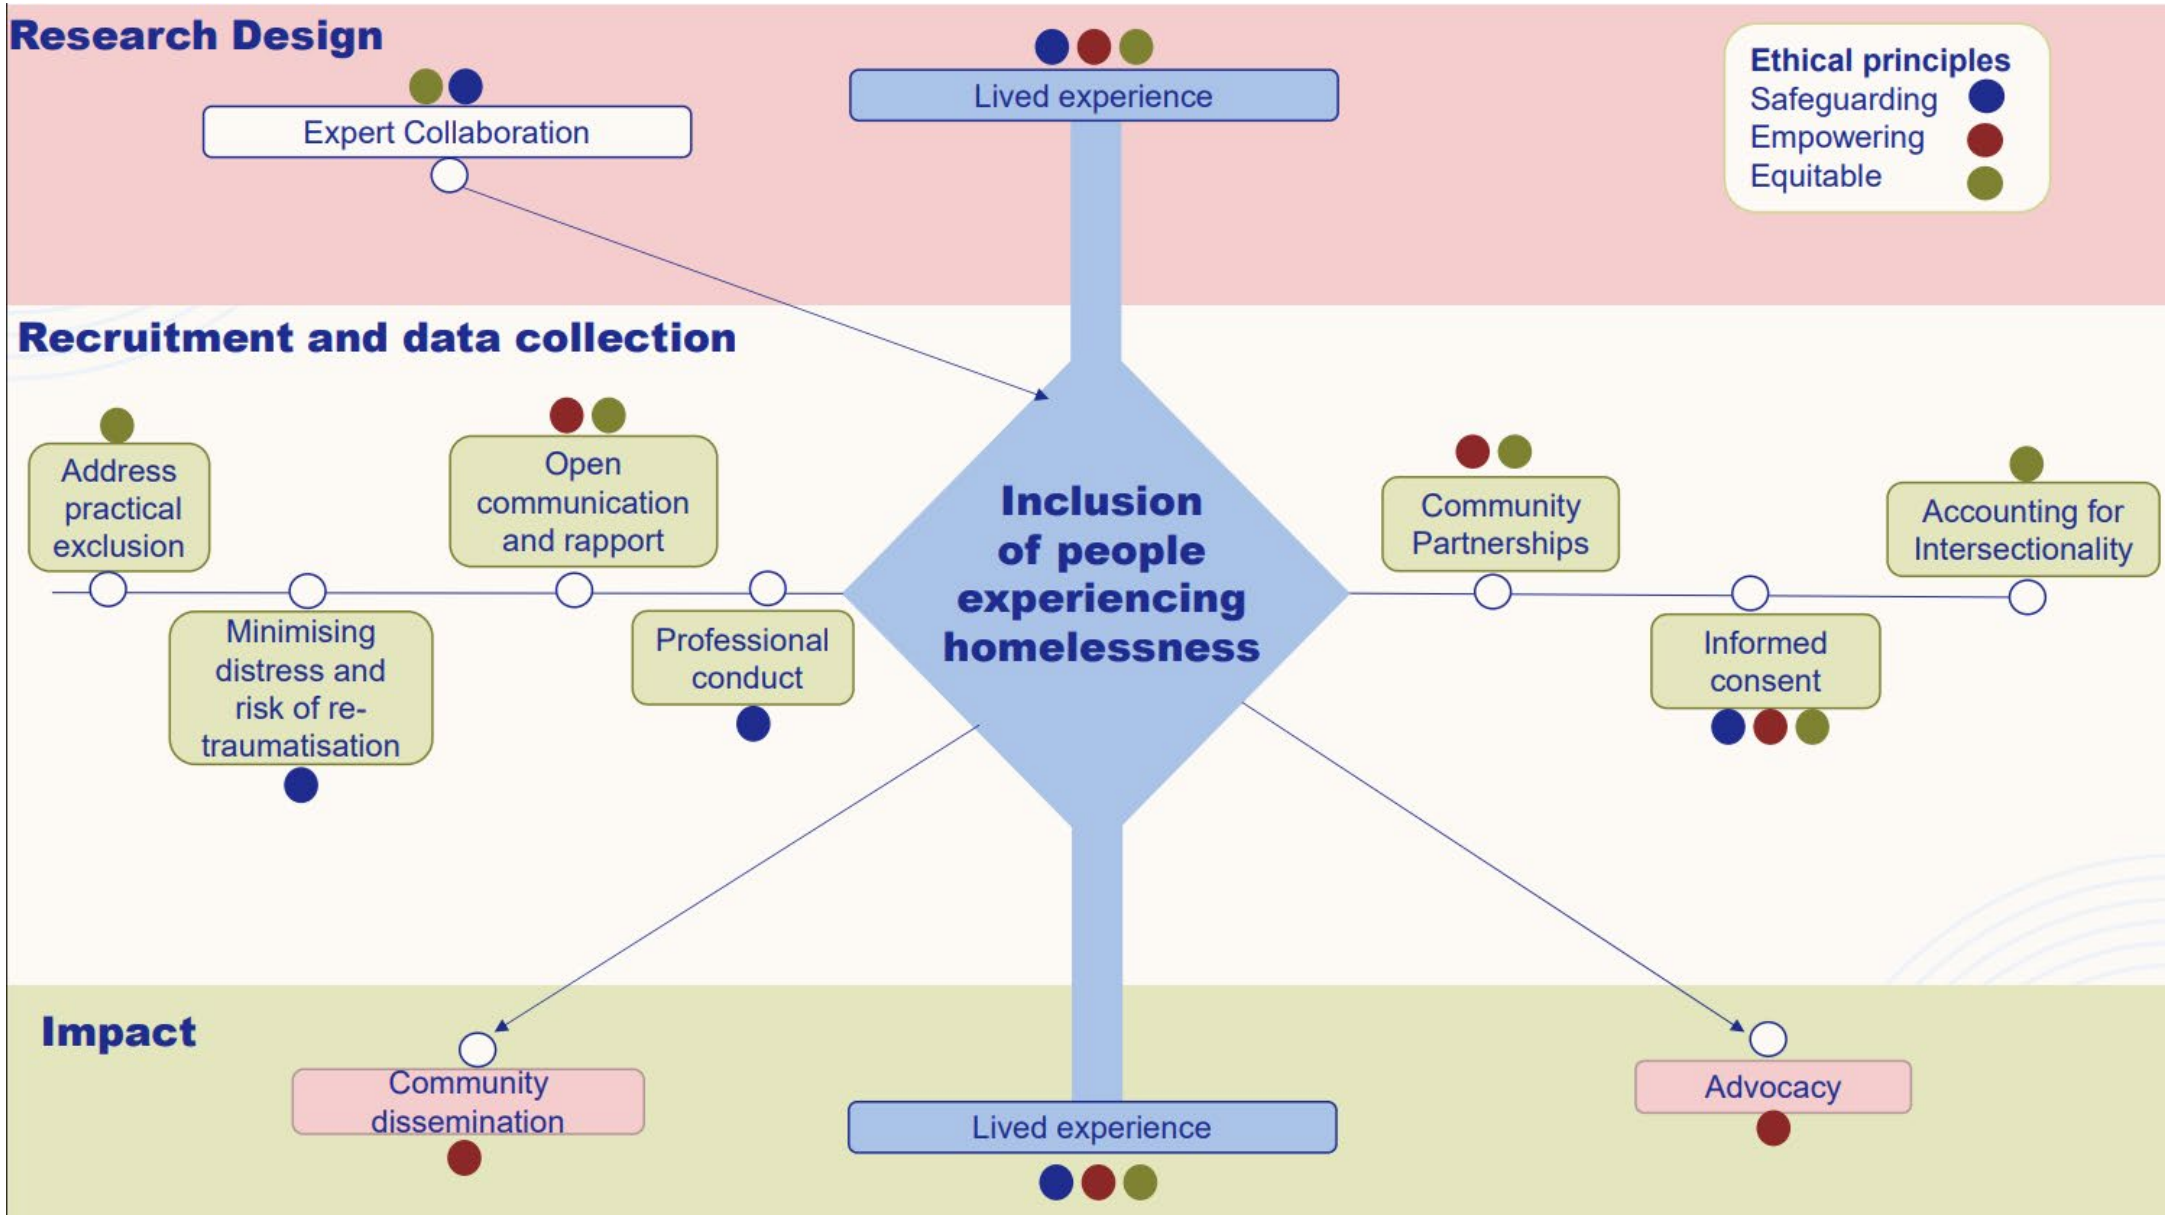
Acknowledgement

Resilience and survivorship of those who were part of my work and represented by it

ACRC
Advanced Care Research Centre



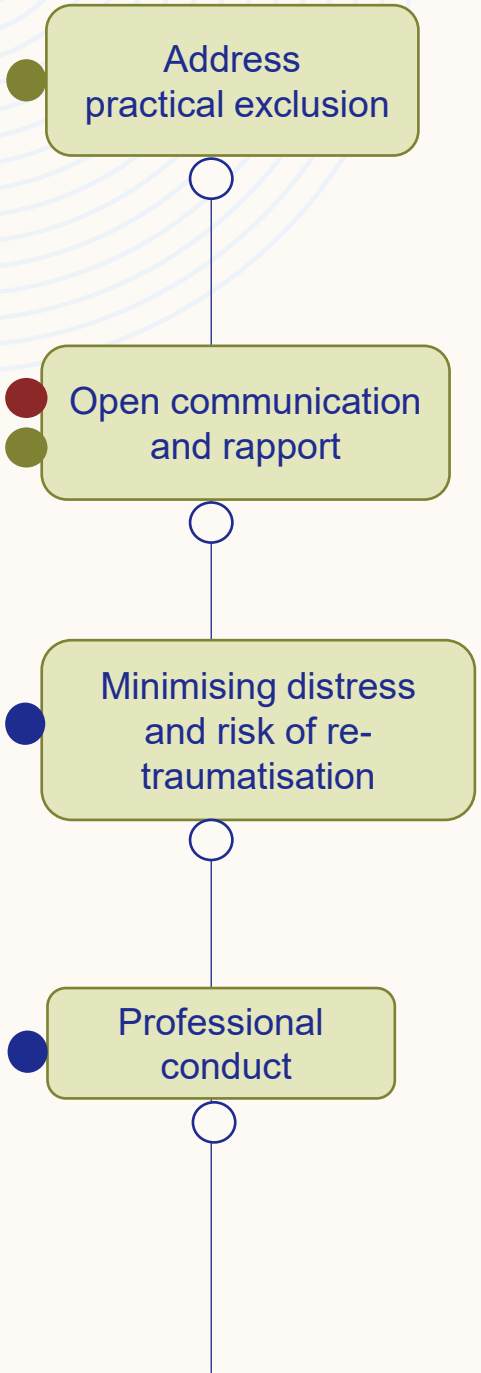
ACRC
Advanced Care Research Centre



ACRC
Advanced Care Research Centre

- People with lived experience of homelessness must be involved from the start
- Co-producing where possible
- Their insights shape the research questions, methods, and outputs.

ACRC
Advanced Care Research Centre



•Practical exclusionary factors — like lack of transport, digital access, or private space.

•Minimising distress and risk of re-traumatisation — through trauma-informed approaches and safe environments.

•Open communication and rapport — using clear, respectful language and building trust over time.

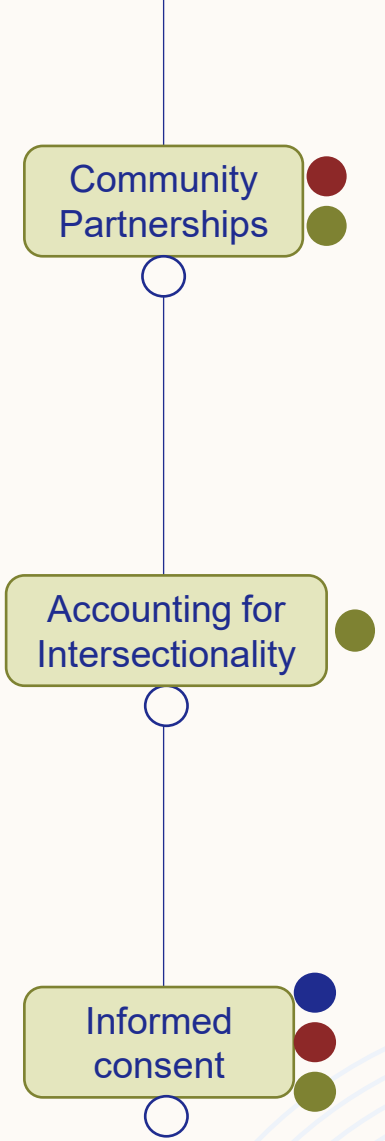
•Professional conduct — including cultural competency and training for researchers

ACRC
Advanced Care Research Centre

- Strong community partnerships — not just for recruitment, but for ongoing engagement.

- Informed consent in context — recognising that capacity can fluctuate and literacy may be a barrier.

- Intersectionality — acknowledging overlapping identities and tailoring approaches accordingly



ACRC
Advanced Care Research Centre

Thank you!

Questions or interest

Emily Adams | ACRC Academy

Email: E.Adams_6@sms.ed.ac.uk

ACRC
Advanced Care Research Centre

THE UNIVERSITY of EDINBURGH
Centre for Homelessness and Inclusion Health